- * ●According to US Food and Drug Administration, the safety reference value (i.e. tolerable daily intake - TDI) for melamine is 0.63mg per kg of body weight per day.
- A 60 kg adult needs to consume 37.8 mg of melamine per day in order to reach the TDI.
- According to the Mainland experience, the TDI for melamine is 0.32mg per kg of body weight per day for children under the age of 3 years, as they are more sensitive to melamine.
- A 10 kg child needs to consume 3.2 mg of melamine per day in order to reach the TDI.
- Transient excursion above the TDI of melamine would have no health consequences provided that the average intake over a long period has not exceeded the TDI.
